

Experts: Dorota – group 8; Alex – group 10;

What was reviewed: <http://nayelisbodega.dk/project/matrix.html>

Set up of expert test:

Test questions were prepared and printed with some space to write in the answers, then two experts, a guy and a girl were picked to have two different point of views what we've done so far. Experts sat in front of computer, we gave them headphones and let to go through animation. Afterwards both of them filled in their answers for questions. For summarizing the test, some of additional not crucial questions needed to be asked like "How many characters did you recognize, since you don't remember the names?" so it would be easier to conclude the results.

Summary of expert test:

It was easy to recognize which movie scene was recreated and both of experts named it.

Characters were easily recognizable. Dorota named 2 of 3 characters – Neo and Morpheus. Alex also recognized only 2 characters, but couldn't remember their names. Experts didn't recognize and name Trinity as she is not very important in the recreated scene.

Style of animation – collage – was easily recognizable.

For Dorota the emotion recreated scene gave was ear pain, since the sound levels of the sounds effects were not adjusted to be the same. One of the sound effects was way louder than others. Dorota also felt confused about what to click to start animation. Alex did not get any strong emotions from animation, just an opinion, that scene was recreated good.

Since experts reviewed not finished animation, Dorota was expecting further plot, an ending. Alex did not expect objects/characters to fade in and out.

Two experts, two different point of views, Dorota had difficulties understanding what interactions could be made, meanwhile Alex had no such problem.

Both of experts pointed out that fire was an "easter egg" for sure. They did not find anything else, but while observing experts taking the test, we could see that both of them found the second "easter egg" which was clicking the blue pill, they just didn't realize they found it.

In Alex opinion, close-ups were unexpected, but interesting.

Improvements made after expert test:

Double-click changed for just a click. More affordance was made in the animation. For instance, every frame change was a click. This stays the same through the animation so the user becomes familiar. More clues were added so the user knew when an element was interactive.

Filled-in tests:

Your name: ALEX

Group number: 10

THE MATRIX
2. Do you recognize the characters? If yes, name them.
DON'T REMEMBER THE NAMES, BUT I RECOGNIZE THEM
3. What style in your opinion was used in making this? (Choose 1)
 - Cinema_film Noir
 - Russian constructivism
 - Popart
 - Western
 - Blue note
 - Collage ✓
 - Surrealism
 - Punk
4. What emotions this recreated scene gave to you?
NOT NECESSARILY STRONG EMOTIONS, BUT IT RECREATED THE SCENE GOOD.
5. Did you expect something more to happen? Or maybe you expected that something else will happen than actually happened?
I DIDN'T EXPECT THE CHARACTERS / OBJECTS TO FADE IN AND OUT.
6. Was it hard to understand what interactions could be made?
NO
7. How many "easter eggs" you have found? Were they easy to find?
FIRE. THE FIRE WAS OBVIOUS, BUT DIDN'T NOTICE ANYTHING ELSE.
8. What made this recreation interesting to you? What would you change to make it more interesting?
THE CLOSEUPS WERE INTERESTING AND UNEXPECTED. THE ONLY THING I WOULD CHANGE ARE THE SOUND VOLUME AND FIX THE WHITE OUTLINE OF THE CHARACTERS AND OBJECTS.
9. What is your overall impression? Do you see some possible improvements? If yes, what in your opinion could be improved?
I LIKE THE ANIMATION AND I WOULD CHANGE THE THINGS MENTIONED IN QUESTION NR. 8.
